THE NEW REPUBLICAN BOSS LANG-STON FORMALLY NOMINATED.

An Important Republican Negro Conference Held in Petersburg Yesterday-

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.] PETERSBURG, VA., October 8.- In response to a call issued by the Langston Republican Club of the District of Columbia a conference was held here to-day for the urpose of considering the best course to pursued relative to the congressional contest in this district. The matter has n kept very quiet so far as the general was advised, and but little was nown about it until the conference met. today in Langston's Hall, on Union street.
Some fifty or sixty delegates, representing each of the eleven counties of the district and the city of Petersburg, were present.
Ross Hamilton, of Mecklenburg county,

SOLID FOR LANGSTON. The proceedings were harmonious and the body was practically unanimous in the favor of the one object before it—viz., the endorsement of John M. Laugston as the Republican candidate for Congress. With about half a dozen exceptions the delegates composing the conference were colored, the exceptional white face here and there making the contrast the greater. After the reading of the call and some discussion as to the objects of the conference, a committee on resolutions was ap-

The bride and groom entered behind the bridemaids, the bride looking very handsome in white faile, Duchesse lace and pearl trimmings, veil fastened with pearl ornaments and carrying in her hand a magnificent bouquet of bride's roses.

After the extendony the bride and groom were driven to Labrary Hall, where a brilliant reception tollowed and a superbehampane dinner was served. Congratulations to the happy couple were extended by a very large company of friends. The couple left on the 5 o'clock train for an extended bridal trip through the North.

In honor of the marriage a brilliant cerman was given to night at Labrary Hall, where dancing and festivities were kept up until a late hour of the night. Scores of couples in beautiful costumes were on the floor and the hall was crowded with spectators.

nal. Despondency caused suicide. CAUSES A SENSATION IN PROVIDENCE. PROVIDENCE, R. I., October S.—The startling news of the suicide of William Sprague, Jr., the only heir to the once great manufacturing house of the A. & W. Sorague Company, caused a sensation in this city to-day. Young Sprague from early life has had a most romantic and exciting career. He was born in this city and reared on the highest plane of luxury. His father was ex-Governor William Sprague, the famous war Governor of Khode Island, while his mother was the beautiful and diplomatic Kate Chase, the daughter of one of the Chief Justices of the United States Supreme Court.

HIS HABITS MOULDED.

His Harits Moulded.

His youth was thus passed in the highest social circle and with planty of money at his command. Even when in his teens he became an impulsive and an impetuous youth. His habits were later moulded in the exciting times that made Canonchet the fountain of scandals, sensation, and excitement that lasted for a long term of years. From the great four-storied mansion in Orchard avenue in Providence young Sprague, during the financial rupture of the Sprague house, went to the castle at Canonchet.

DEFENDING THE CASTLE. Soon after this place was practically garrisoned against encroaching creditors, and Trustee Chaffee and young Sprague became prominent in the protection of the great estate. At all times at the most trying moments the Chief-Justice's grandson was at the elbow of his father, the ex-Governor, and with rifle in hand at the enrance to Canonchet he warned all to keep

When the final row took place between the late Senator Roscoe Conklin and Governor Sprague over the former's attention to Mrs. Sprague, it was his boy that loaded a gun for himself and father, and coming on the Senator unawares, chased him, half-dressed and in his stocking-feet, out of the house and across the fields. A few days later young Sprague added to the general excitement by taking a flying-shot at Hon. Robert W. Thompson, the lawyer who represented the Spragues creditors.

It was during these exciting times that no less than a dozen distinguished citizens of the State were shot at indiscriminately by the beleaguered Spragues or chased with dogs over the estate. The finale of this was the suit for divorce begun by Mrs. Sprague, during which the boy was sent to Texas to manage one of his father's ranches, and while there led a very wild life. MARRIED A DIVORCED WIFE.

WARRIED A DIVORCED WIFE.

While away his father married Miss Dora Inez Weed, the divorced wife of Frank Calvert, a Cincinnati commercial traveller. Her father was a wealthy Virginan and her mother a Cuban. Miss Weed was a woman of great beauty, and when she wedded Governor Sprague she and her two nertly young sisters Avis and her two pretty young sisters, Avis and Juliet, came to live in the old family homestead. Some six years ago young Sprague came home, and falling in love with Avis Weed, cloped with her and went to live in Washington. After two years he tired of her, and after sending her back to his father's house he started out roaming through the West.

DIVORCED AND MARRIED AGAIN. His pretty wife at once got a divorce and married Colonel William W. Wheaton, a friend of the Governor's, and a man old enough to be her father. Three months ago the young sister eloped with a man the Governor had driven off the place. During the past five years the son has been roaming through Mexico and the Southwest.

The speech was one of broad patriotism and statesmanship, the words were patriotic, and the document will be read with profound interest by northern and southern menaliks. General Longstreet says this speech is in all probability the last public autterances he will give in such a general way. Ex-Federal and ex-Confederates alike shed tears or cheered during its reading.

General Harvey Gibson, of Ohio, followed General Longstreet in a grand oration.

To-night the city is brilliantly illuminated and receptions are held everywhere, each house being open to the old soldiers. The old veterans are again around the camp-fires talking of the scenes of long ago. Not the slightest thing has occurred to mar the occasion. It is really a reunion of hand and heart. Old men during the speeches to-day who had fought against each other embraced and wept like children. The feeling of the Confederates is that this is one country and there is but one flag, and they are heartily glad of it, though they are not ashamed of what they did.

Twenty wounded.

By telegraph to the Dispatch.!

Withmorron, Dell... October S.—Eleven persons were killed and twenty injured in yesterday afternoon's explosion at the Dupont powder.mills. The men who were killed were all working in and about the magazines and mills and except in the case of three, William R. Green, William McGarvey, and Patrick Dougherty were blown to pieces so that only fragments of their remains have been found. The body of Patrick Dougherty was found this morning in the water of the race along the creek shore, where it had been thrown by the explosion. The body of Green was found just outside the ruins of the magazine in which the first explosion occurred, and strange to say it was not mangled or burned. It is the theory of the workmen that the explosions were started in some way by the soldering of the iron which Green was using in soldering at in cover on the cans of powder. This work is extremely dangerous and Green was the only man trusted to perform it.

"We have of course received endless reports, but no positive or final conclusion can be formed until potatoes are dug, to ward the end of October, but all the testimony ward the end of October, but all the testimony ward the end of October, but all the testimony ward the end of October, but all the testimony ward the end of October, but all the testimony ward the end of October, but all the testimony ward the end of October, but all the testimony ward the end of October, but all the testimony ward the end of October, but all the testimony ward the end of October, but all the testimony ward the end of October, but all the testimony ward the end of October, but all the testimony ward the end of October, but all the testimony ward the end of October, but all the testimony ward the end of October, but all the testimony ward the end of October, but all the testimony ward the end of October, but all the testimony which is of any value, and which ob viously is not doctored for political purposes, appears to indicate that the cry of the genera (By telegraph to the Dispatch.) usted to perform it. trusted to perform it.

WHAT FIRED THE FOWDER.

He was an old employe who thoroughly understood his work, but it is supposed his soldering-iron became too hot and that it is heat fired the powder in spite of his carefulness. Green and McGarvey were the only men in the magazine at the time. Farly reports of the disaster placed Daniel Harkins's name in the list of killed by the explosion, but Harkins was not killed, although he was severely injured. When the explosion began he was standing on the porch of the press-mill, where he is employed, and the force of the explosion blew him from the porch into the race, a distance of about twenty feet, Immediately afterwards the press-mill exploded and had Harkins been still standing on the porch he would have been blown to atoms. As it was he was saverely bruised and shocked, but managed to crawl out of the race and reach his home, where he now lies under the care of a physician. He will probably recover. John Diezz, James Grant, and Joseph Harger were also reported killed, but all three escaped without injuries.

A MHACULOUS ESCAPE.

A MIRACULOUS ESCAPE. John Brader, employed by the powder manufacturers as teamster, had a miracu-ous escape. He was driving a double team through the powder-yard when the explo-tion occurred and his wagon was demo-shed and the horses attached to it were killed. Brader was not hurt.

The original powder-works were founded by Eleuthere Irone Dupont de Nemours in 1802, and the upper mills, where yesterday's explosion occurred, were added to the plant in 1812. The total works as they exist to-day have a capacity for turning out twelve million pounds of powder annually, and the firm of Dupont de Nemours & Co. own and operate also ten additional mills in Luzern, Schulkill, and Northumberland counties, Pa.

in Luzern, Schulkill, and Nerthele counties, Pa.

In 1886 there were used in their works, including the Pennsylvania mills, over sixteen million pounds of saltpetre and nitrate of soda, the chief ingredients of powder. The Brandywine plant numbers in its entirety some eighty different buildings extending along the western bank of the creek and for a short distance on the eastern bank about two miles. Including the creek and for a short distance on the eastern bank about two miles. Including the site of the mills, of the dwellings of the employes, churches, schools, and other buildir and the company's tract on the Brandywine amounts to about 2,500 acres.

Lyon this property, besides the buildings mentioned, are three woollen-mills, and cotton-mill, and grist-mill, and a population of about 4,000 people, of whom over 300 were employed in the works.

The death of the infants of Thomas Dougherty from injuries received by falling timbers brings the powder-mills fatality up to twelve. Of the injured all are reported doing well, apprehension of a fatal result being entertained only in the case of Daniel Harkins. Harkins is over seventy. A member of the firm said today that it was impossible as yet to give any figures of the property loss.

THOUSANDS VIEW THE WRECK.

THOUSANDS VIEW THE WRECK.

A cordon of guards was posted and rigid orders were issued to exclude from the powder-yards all but employes. Thousands have gone to view the wreck and extra precautions were imperatively required to avoid further danger, as considerable powder was lying about in kegs, canisters, and even loose, one of the strange features of the disaster being that the mill which escaped destruction had powder contained therein blown out over adjacent ground by concussion without igniting. A stone weighing 200 pounds was blown 300 yards from one mill. THOUSANDS VIEW THE WRECK.

Washington, D. C., October 8.—The Catholic Young Men's National Union held an adjourned meeting here to-day. T. C. O'Sullivan, of New York, addressed the Union on the subject of diocessean unions. A notable passage in his address was this: "Men say without a blush of shame for the falsehood that we American Catholics are not loyal to our country and the National Government. How false, Why the very mothers who taught our intant lips to lisp the name of God also taught us to love our country, and while we love and obey one we will continue to show our loyalty to the other."

Men say that should the Pope of Rome tell us to overthrow the American Constitution we should at least be compelled to attempt its overthrow. Tell them to be charitable. Tell them to be reasonable. Tell them there is nothing in the American Constitution repugnant to the law of God; that it is the sort of Coustitution that men have the right to make and obey. Tell them that the Pope never did have, has not to-day, and never will have the right to tell us to attempt its destruction."

The Committee on Resolutions submitted a long list, which was adopted. It declares that the Catholic Young Men's National Union renews its declaration of persevering and unalterable devotion to the Roman Catholic Apostolic Church and its unswerving lovality to the free and glorious republic of the United States; tenders love and obedience to the Pope; believes in the necessity of Catholic schools for Catholic children; regards intemperance as the greatest vice of the age, and deplores the death of Cardinal Newman and John Boyle O'Rielly.

RUMORS ON WALL STREET. Blocks of Stock.

New York, October 8.—All day rumors were in circulation on Wall street of the embarrassment of some of the most important firms on the Stock Exchange and it was known that one firm had its checks thrown out by the banks. Another firm is said to have sold $9,000,000 worth of securities because the margins on which they were carried had become exhausted. In addition to these rumors it was said that the head of the firm of Drexel, Morgan & Co., J. Pierrepont Morgan, had fallen from an attack of vertigo in the rooms of the Union Club last night and was removed to his bome. It was stated to-day, however, that he had fully recovered from the attack and would have been at his office, but that out of deference to the advice of his physician he went to his country-seat. The banks were unusually sharp in scrutinizing collateral and large blocks of stock were thrown out during the day on that account. 1By telegraph to the Dispatch.

Injured-Cause Low Water. [By telegraph to the Dispatch.] MUSKERGON, MICH., October S.—A terrible explosion occurred at the Ducey Lumber Company's lower saw-mill this morning as the fireman was getting up steam. Four of the six boilers exploded, wreeking the mill and blowing the other two boilers far from their foundations. Six were injured and one—Fireman Yerger—cannot recover. The cause of the explosion was low water. The loss to the mill will be heavy and it will not start up again this fall.

Washington, D. C., October S.—General Mahone arrived here this morning and took his usual apartments at Chamberlain's. He has kept close to the hotel and has had but little to say to people other than his intimate friends who have called. He is not yet telling just what he proposes doing in a political way in Virginia this year, but it is said that he is fixing up a few little schemes to prove whether he is still boss of the Republicans in the State or whether Langston is. I vague n more of different sorts were set affect to increase the existing despondency on the street. One of the most powerful factors in creating discress in the early portion of the day was the disappeacance of the builth feeling in London, and taken together with the reported renewal of disturbances in South America, the selling farbitrage brokers went a long way to induce a further liquidation of the demestic accounts on the long side.
